IN SOLEMN MEMORY

ELKS LODGE OF SORROW WAS ATTENDED SUNDAY BY LARGE AND APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE

No fraternal order is more highly thought of in Glendale than the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. The local lodge has always been active in work for the benefit of the community and shows a laudable spirit of charity at all seasons. It was, therefore, not astonishing that the Lodge of Sorrow, held Sunday to commemorate the dead brethren of the past year, was largely attended by the public as well as by the Elks themselves.

The Palace-Grand theater was filled with an audience that was deeply appreciative of the beauty of the memorial services. Exalted Ruler Stephen C. Packer presided and directed the impressive symbolical portions of the service with great dignity and effect. The Vacant Chair, The Eleven Strokes and the Opening Ode led up to a beautiful invocation by the Rev. C. Irving Mills. Brother Spencer Robinson sang with great effect Johnson's beautiful and appropriate sacred song "Face to Face."

The eulogy pronounced by Brother W. C. Wattles was characteristic of the deep sense that brother has of the merits and services of those who passed away during the year. The eulogy was characterized by chastity of expression and knowledge of the characters of the brethren.

Brother Earl Houk, the blind baritone, whose loss of sight seems to have quickened his sense of hearing and his appreciation of the niceties of musical harmony sang with great effect Paul Grenin's "Hosanna Song." Miss Grace Fletcher accompanied him with great taste. The male quartet, consisting of Messrs. Browne, Doner, Moore and Cunningham, rendered several selections with much skill and expression.

The feature of the service was naturally the memorial oration by the Hon. Frank H. Snyder, who displayed great oratorical gifts and a thorough understanding of the significance of the Elks' memorial day. Julius Kranz played the "Ave Maria" of Schubert with great delicacy and feeling. He was accompanied by Miss Mellicent Virden.

The memorial ritual of the order was then given by the members. Earl Houk sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere;" the audience joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne" and the services were closed with the benediction by the Rev. C. Irving Mills.

The names of the brethren whose memory was thus solemnly commemorated are:

John A. Regan, born July 7, 1864; died Jan. 3, 1913.
John W. Parker, born Nov. 25, 1877; died Oct. 3, 1913.
Charles D. Cunningham, born June 2, 1865; died March 6, 1914.
Henry G. Pettit, born May 1, 1885; died Aug. 2, 1914.
Hans Grass, born March 25, 1885; died Sept. 20, 1914.
L. A. Fargo, born April 7, 1851; died July 22, 1915.
M. H. Nolen, born Jan. 8, 1892; died Aug. 7, 1915.
William Herman West, born July 26, 1852; died Aug. 28, 1915.
George C. Hollister, born July 18, 1873; died Dec. 2, 1915.

DEATH OF G. C. HOLLISTER

George C. Hollister, member of the Glendale Lodge of Elks, was killed Thursday, Dec. 2, while patrolling his district in the Piru forests. Mr. Hollister was 42 years of age, having been born July 18, 1873. He joined the Glendale lodge at Fillmore. Mr. Hollister was riding through the woods when he was thrown from his horse. The body was found very shortly after the accident had taken place, but all effort to revive the injured man failed. He leaves a wife and two children. The funeral will take place Monday afternoon at 2 p. m. Interment will be at Forest Lawn and the funeral services will be in charge of the Elks.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE LECTURE

The third lecture in the domestic science course which has been arranged by the Parent-Teacher federation will be given Wednesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in the Union High School. At that time Mr. W. M. Shaw, of the White Market, will be present and will demonstrate the correct methods of cutting beef and mutton. Mr. Shaw will show the different cuts and will explain their cooking value and their cost. All interested in this valuable instruction are invited to attend. Those present are also invited to ask questions. Mr. Shaw will be glad to give instruction on all points. No housewife should miss this interesting demonstration.

OATMAN A PARADISE

F. J. SHOWALTER SAYS NEW MINING CAMP HAS NEITHER "WILD CATS" SALOONS NOR GAMBLING

Quite a number of Glendale people have gone into Oatman, the new mining camp in Arizona, about 18 miles from the California boundary at Needles. Some Tropic people are there also. Every day sees new arrivals in the camp. A letter from F. J. Showalter, who is among the Glendale people at Oatman, will be of interest to News readers. Mr. Showalter, under date of December 2, says:

"A few lines from one on the ground might be of interest to your many readers, especially as there are a number of Glendale and Tropic people here.

"Oatman is different in every respect from any other mining district or town. The geological formation, dykes and ledges are well defined and carry good value from surface to 1225 feet (the deepest shaft), the vein widens and the ore is richer the deeper you go.

"There are 62 companies actually at work here and many more have machinery ordered. This is an indication of stability and permanency. There is not a wild cat in the field and none will be allowed; there are no saloons and no gambling. It is a business place and a busy place.

"People are coming in by the hundreds, business houses and residences are going up as fast as material can be secured and many people are living and doing business in tents until they can build. It is generally predicted that 10,000 people will be here by January, 1917, and it certainly looks that way. The Glendale people are all well and doing well. Ray Borthick is prospecting, and locating, and from present indications he will soon be in the bankers' class. J. A. Pirtle has a sure bonanza, the only large, level plot of ground anywhere in this vicinity. It is beautifully located and surrounded by several mines on the main road to Needles, really an ideal place. Yet he has priced his lots at less than half what others not so desirable are selling for. He is giving the buyers a chance and they certainly are taking advantage of it. I believe he will have from 1500 to 2000 people on his property in less than six months. My son and myself are at work and are more than satisfied with our change."

MITCHELLS RETURN

Mrs. Alex Mitchell and Miss Barbara Mitchell are again settled in the attractive Kenneth Road home, after months spent in a pretty Monrovia bungalow. Miss Mitchell has severed her connections permanently with the Monrovia Feature Film company, of which she has been a member. Mrs. Mitchell says that they really enjoyed their stay in the little city and met most charming people of the company as well as others, and that Miss Barbara thoroughly enjoyed her work, but both declare, "It's so good to be at home again," and will be glad to welcome their Glendale friends once more.

MEETING OF GLENDALE D. A. R.

The Glendale Richard Gridley chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet on Wednesday afternoon in the home of the regent, Mrs. Mary Gridley Braly, at 205 North Brand Boulevard, time, 2:30 o'clock.

The meeting is a most important one and a very attractive program has been arranged. The speaker for the afternoon is Mrs. Merritt Luden, and she has chosen for her topic, "Immigration." Reading of American history will follow and during the social hour music will be enjoyed and refreshments served. All members are requested to be present and each is invited to bring one friend.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE

Mrs. Zay Rector Bevirt, associate editor of "The Pacific Coast Musician," also Pacific Coast representative of the Dunning system of music for beginners, will be presented by the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club at their next meeting, Friday, December the 10th, at the Masonic Temple, at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Bevirt is the originator of teaching piano through harmony diagram and her address should prove more than interesting. The piano class of Mrs. Eva J. Cunningham will illustrate the lecture. Mrs. E. W. Kinney, music curator, invited all club members and their friends to be present.

GARDENS AND SHOWS

M. HARTMANN TELLS GLENDALE GARDEN SOCIETY VALUE OF ORGANIZATION LIKE ITSELF

In the second chapter and the eighth verse of Genesis, it is written: "And the Lord God planted a garden eastward of Eden, and there put the man whom he had formed." Here we see that a garden is a prime necessity; the use of it being imparted to mankind before any of the great potentialities of land, sky and waters were unfolded to him. Have we not here a great sermon on gardens? We are told of other early gardens, the Hanging Gardens of Babylon (one of the seven wonders of the world), the Garden of Gethsemane.

In the war-stricken countries of Europe they are making lawns and parks into gardens. They, as in the case of our first parents, must grow garden stuffs in order to sustain life. This surely is a second sermon.

It is a great thing that garden societies are formed, or are being formed, all over this glorious country of ours. Of vast importance is the fact that our schools are beginning to teach and encourage gardening and kindred subjects. I was a fair gardener at 14 years of age; I also understood grafting and pruning of fruit trees. This may sound like brag, but in my part of Germany, where I was born, every boy and some girls could do as well. In fact, each child was given a patch of ground, that was his or her garden. With proper seeds, plants and instructions for the reasons why, we simply started to do it well so as to please our father and to outdo our neighbors, and everybody else. When it is remembered the only tools we had for our work were a spade, hoe, rake, dibble and line, it will readily be seen that gardening was different to what it is today. We also had a heavy wooden bucket and dipper for watering. This bucket always comes to my mind when I hear the song of "The Old Oaken Bucket."

In those days, some fifty years ago, there was no such thing known as a garden hose or fire hose, the former wooden, the latter leather. Even ladies did not wear hose; they had to be content with stockings. During the garden season we had our hands occupied, and during the rest of the year some task done or service performed for the benefit of the household, and that meant ourselves included. These were our athletic exercises. Of plays, we did all the stunts boys do nowadays, and perhaps bragged as much, and certainly enjoyed them to the fullest extent. As to playgrounds, we prepared them ourselves instead of having them smoothed and rolled for us. For the comfort of our toes and certain other parts of our anatomy was not much considered.

In the last dozen years I have been a member of several garden or kindred societies. I am also a life-member of the Minnesota State Horticultural Society, and have found them all instructive, and have derived great pleasure therefrom. I have been an exhibitor occasionally, and got away with a share of prizes, mostly ribbons. Our United States flag is only a piece of cloth, but what a world of meaning back of it. So it is with the ribbon given to denote the merit of the subject exhibited.

The exhibition of the products of gardens, mostly flowers, which impressed me the most, was one I attended as proxy for a friend of mine, a Board schoolmaster, at Chipping Norton, Oxon, England, in 1890. For simplicity, neatness and perfect arrangement of details, it could not have been improved upon as far as I could see. The exhibit was held under a large marquee. This tent stood in a large meadow some distance outside the town. Outside it, under some trees, a lot of tables and chairs were arranged. The exhibits were classified, and each class by itself. Specimen roses, collections of roses; specimen sweet peas, collections of same; all other flowers in the same way. Potted plants also were perfectly arranged, so that the judges could without much trouble arrive at their decisions, and the public see all to the best advantage.

The rules were, to have all exhibits in place between 9 and 11 o'clock a. m.; judging, 11 to 1 o'clock. No one allowed in the tent during the judging. All exhibits numbered only until after awarding of the prizes, after which exhibitors might place their names on their exhibits. These rules did not apply to professionals. As I was the guest of a brother Mason when the show opened to the public, I did not learn what was the entrance fee to the grounds and exhibits. Coffee, tea and cake were served on the tables before mentioned.

There was a large crowd when I left in the middle of the afternoon.

ABOUT LOCAL DAIRIES

INSPECTOR HOLLENBECK REPORTS GOOD CONDITIONS IN GLENDALE'S MILK SUPPLY ESTABLISHMENTS

"Conditions in the local dairies are fairly satisfactory," said Inspector Hollenbeck to a representative of The Glendale Evening News. "I believe that the local dairymen and vendors are anxious to comply in every respect with the law. I found during my rounds last month only one place where objections were made to the improvements ordered.

"Dairymen must comply with the orders of the inspector, who is bound in making his inspection to follow the rules laid down for him in his printed instructions. If the inspector finds sanitary conditions violated he would be culpably negligent of his duty if he did not at once order a change. To do the local men justice, however, I must say that I believe it would be difficult to find better conditions anywhere than are to be found in Glendale.

"Two new dairies were added to the number in this district last month. These dairies are of the most modern description. The floors and stanchions are of concrete; the corrals, barns, etc., are all in first-class condition.

"I see that the University of California recommends that every dairyman should own and use a Babcock outfit for testing the butterfat of his cow's milk. The university authorities also offer the dairyman, if he should wish to assure himself of fair practice by the creamery to which he sells his cream, that he can have samples of his cream tested at the University Farm. While this may not concern Glendale dairymen so much as some others I believe the possession of a Babcock outfit would be a satisfaction to many of them.

"During the month, from Nov. 1 to Dec. 1, I have inspected according to regulations 14 dairies. Fourteen dairies have received notice to make a general cleanup of their premises; 9 received notice to clean up their corrals; 2 were ordered to clean their stanchions.

"One received orders to build a milkhouse; 2 received orders to put in screen doors. One was ordered to provide a sterilizer. Two were ordered to use their sterilizers. One was ordered to build stanchions; 3 were ordered to whitewash their buildings.

"Sixty-five cattle were inspected and one cow was condemned; 7 cows were temporarily ordered taken out of dairies on account of sickness or injuries. Six samples of milk were collected; 3 of cream.

"Three milk cans were condemned; three milk can covers were condemned; 2 strainers were condemned; one bucket was condemned. One dairy was ordered to stop wet milking. Two permits for new dairies were passed on.

"In examining the premises of milk vendors, such as grocery stores, bakeries and other premises licensed to sell milk, I found conditions better than in October. Altogether I have been able to send in a fairly favorable report for the past month."

AUTO COLLISION

When W. Buchanan of Glendale was driving down Broadway a little west of Glendale avenue, Saturday, a truck belonging to the Julius Bach company of Los Angeles swung into his path. The auto tried to avoid the collision but only managed to avert an end-on smash. The heavy wagon glanced along the side of the auto, destroying the left lamp, bending the left fender, driving a hole in the tool box and causing the radiator to leak.

I learned later on that it was one of the society events of the year. All classes of exhibitors were represented for miles around, lords and cottagers. When the awards were published in the local papers, my friend, the schoolmaster, pointed out one name, that of a section hand, who captured a best (money) prize at every show. I think it was customary, or perhaps the rule, to publish the day and date of the event a month in advance, in order to give all intending exhibitors a fair chance to have their exhibitions in the best possible condition on the eventful day.

To the president and each member of the Glendale Garden Society I extend my best wishes for success in their endeavor; and speaking from experience I can truthfully say that vegetables grown in your own garden will taste better than those you can buy, and when contemplating your flowers, you will agree with the Bible, where it says that: "Even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

GALLANT SERVICE IN ARCTIC REGIONS

While the countries of Europe are plunged in a devastating and unnatural war, with their mighty navies scouring the seas for the purpose of destroying human life, far off in the icy waters of the Arctic the revenue cutters of the United States are quietly and unobtrusively working to save the lives of shipwrecked mariners and explorers and carrying mail and provisions to the devoted servants of the government who are stationed all along the Arctic as far North as Point Barrow, the most northerly point of the vast Alaskan territory. The work done by this service is seldom heard of, seldom spoken about except among the inhabitants of that northern region where it is deeply appreciated and thoroughly understood.

To understand the courage and devotion of the men of this service it is necessary to know that Point Barrow is open to vessels of any kind only during a brief period—about three months of the year. The rest of the year the northern regions of Alaska which face the pole, and down the coast through the Bering sea is frozen tight, as far south in Alaska as Valdez the ocean and the Bering sea are frozen tight for more than seven months. A United States cutter, the Bear, one of the oldest boats in the service, leaving San Francisco in April kept slowly up the Alaskan coast, reaching Nome, June 1, the first vessel to reach that port. At that time the sea is still choked up with moving icefields and is exceedingly dangerous. The Bear brought mail and supplies to the various outlying government stations, most of which had had no communication with the outside since the ice closed in on them in the previous end of October.

After landing her supplies the cutter went back through the Bering sea to note ice conditions and to report them by wire to Seattle where the first fleet of steamers was waiting to sail for Nome. This enabled these steamers to get through the icefields in safety.

Then the tireless cutter went north to Port Clarence, the great tin country, where some government stations are; thence across to northeastern Siberia on the chance of finding some shipwrecked sailors; thence north to Point Barrow. On this journey the cutter visited the various educational stations of the government, among the Eskimos, such as the far out Lawrence Island and others, where devoted medical-missionary-teachers labor unselfishly all the year round, never seeing a white face, until the yearly visit of the cutter comes to cheer them. Sometimes there is work of a judicial nature to be done. Some Eskimo or white man in those far out regions may have committed murder. Tribal quarrels are adjusted and sick and dying men and women succored and comforted.

In the midst of all this vastly useful work the cutter has to contend with serious weather conditions and to face bitter cold and dangers from ice. On three occasions last summer the Bear rendered aid to stranded vessels. At Point Barrow she found the crews of two wrecked schooners, the Transit and Elvira and transported them to Nome. These men had been living all the eight months of winter among the Eskimos in an indescribably wretched condition and were half dead from exposure and scurvy.

At the request of the Canadian government the Bear was then sent to attempt to rescue the survivors of the Canadian Polar expedition wrecked on Wrangel Island, far up in the arctic, nearly 500 miles north of Nome. Ice baffled her, wild blizzards swept the seas and coal failed. Returning to Nome the Bear got more fuel and supplies and started off again to try to break through the ice. Meantime a light schooner had managed to reach Wrangel island and had taken off the survivors of the expedition. The cutter took the rescued men and women back to Nome where they received care. This closed the season and the Bear returned to San Francisco landing the shipwrecked Canadians at Vancouver, B. C. Such was the gallant record of this gallant ship and crew. The work goes on every year. Sometimes members of these cutters' crews lose their own lives in this service. There is no heroism exhibited on the field of battle that equals this quiet service to humanity and yet it scarce receives any other reward than to be buried in a treasury report.

CLOSE OF SAN FRANCISCO EXPOSITION

San Francisco exposition has closed its gates after a most successful season. Pessimists freely foretold its failure and ridiculed California for its presumption in thinking it would be a success. Its success has fully justified the anticipations of its optimistic directors. They estimated that about twenty million people would attend the fair, the records show an attendance of 18,871,957. The average daily attendance was 62,000 and the net profits were $2,000,000 and possibly more.

This is highly creditable to California. It must be remembered also that the state had another Exposition at San Diego, entirely different in kind from that at San Francisco, which has also been a great success. Both expositions have been of a progressive and up-to-date character. Nothing could equal the beauty of the San Francisco grounds except the beauty of the San Diego area, which is entirely Californian in character and of superb and entrancing attraction.

These two fairs have done a very great deal to advertise California and its attractions to the country and to the world. Many foreign countries sent exhibits to San Francisco, notably Canada and France, the beauty of which two buildings with their wonderful exhibits are to be seen during the coming year at San Diego, where the Exposition is to continued another year, with the addition of the greater part of the wonders that were at San Francisco.

It is impossible to overestimate the good the expositions will do to California. They have turned the volume of travel to the Pacific Coast. That travel used to go to Europe. During the past year the Pacific Coast was visited by millions of people who would never have come here had it not been for the Exposition attractions.

FOR CHRISTMAS

YOUR PHOTOGRAPH. The simple gift that lends the touch of friendship without the embarrassment of an obligation. S. C. MARANVILLE—The Photographer in Your Town.

During the coming year more millions will visit the coast. San Diego will be the attraction. Those millions will not only bring millions of money into Southern California, but they will also bring into California the most desirable class of visitor, the man who will resolve to make this wonderful State his home. California needs settlers. It needs capital for developing the land. It needs men with agricultural knowledge and the willingness to go on to the land and develop the wonderful natural resources of this prolific State.

Without doubt the crowds that visited the fair will take back to the East and to the Middle West a good report of the land. They will send many millions of people here next year to see the San Diego fair and the coast. Above all many of those who were here this year will come back to stay.

It has been disappointing in some respects that the war in Europe and the landslides in the Canal prevented the expected influx of European settlers. In other ways it is providential. It has sent us our own people. It is better for California to be settled by good American agriculturists than by any set of foreigners, however accomplished in the arts of husbandry. California has a good living and a hearty welcome for them.

MEXICO'S FINANCIAL PROBLEMS

It can be easily understood that Carranza is going to have a difficult time reorganizing Mexico's finances. The present also is not a very favorable time for borrowing money. At least when Mexico comes to borrow money she will find that the rate has gone up to a considerable figure. None of the European countries are able to lend money to Mexico. They have enough to do to get money for themselves.

It therefore seems likely that the United States will have to come to Mexico's aid. Mexico will therefore have to pay what is asked for that money. It is quite a delicate undertaking lending money to the Carranza government. It is merely a provisional government and revolution being a pastime in Mexico there is no guarantee that it or any other government that may succeed it will last.

Financiers are never reckless when lending money. The science of moneylending, especially international money lending, is familiar to them and the value and possibilities of national assets are well known. There is probably no richer country in the world than Mexico from the point of view of its natural resources. Its gold fields surpass those of South Africa. Its silver mines throw those of Nevada in the shade. Its oil fields are more prolific than those of California. Even the reckless expenditure and waste of national resources that has gone on during the past five years has not touched the heart of those resources.

TEACHING CHILDREN

Children should be taught early in life to do work accurately and rapidly. Today thousands of men are out of employment because they cannot do work placed before them accurately and rapidly. This is an age of doing things quickly and well. The man who is deficient in these qualifications walks the streets inquiring for work and wonders why he cannot get it. The whole trouble is he is too slow to keep up with the busy procession, and thus he falls out and likely becomes a knocker.

There is work to do for every man who has the ability to do it well and rapidly. Employers have not the money to spend in paying high wages to slow and inferior help. If employers should pay such help business could not be done long at a profit.

FORGIVE AND FORGET

In the rush and tumult of business many hasty words are spoken—some of them indicating a sarcasm that is entirely in contrast with the heart of the speaker. "The ability to forgive and forget" is an admirable qualification of a human being. Life is too short and the good will of fellowmen is too important to allow estrangements come between man and man.

GOOD SERVICE

Whether service is satisfactory or not depends upon to whom the service is being rendered. There are people who are more easily satisfied than others. What one person considers good service, another may label as poor service.

The ability and the inclination to pay obligations is a good qualification for every American citizen to possess. In fact, the qualification is of so much importance it would seem reasonable to require every citizen to possess that qualification.

Glendale is to have a Poultry and Pet Show this week. The good done by such exhibitions is very great. The chicken raising industry and the egg business are among the most important in the country. More money is made every year out of the sale of eggs than out of the gold mines of the United States. This show deserves every encouragement.

Captain Boy-Ed and Captain Von Papen are about to leave this country for this country's good. Having violated the laws of international hospitality, courtesy and trust they can hardly expect that the people of the United States can view their departure with regret. In fact, whatever the German government may think the United States government is not anxious to receive any more such attaches.

It is with much interest that the country is awaiting President Wilson's message to congress, which will be read, probably by the president himself, tomorrow. The message will contain important deliveries on such subjects as "preparedness," in which the country is profoundly interested. It will also deal with other subjects of equal importance and will have a far-reaching effect on the future of the Democratic party.

Dr. Raymond Ludden, who has been located at 414 S. Brand boulevard during the past year, has moved his office and residence to 345 S. Orange street, corner of Broadway. 78tf

CALIFORNIA CITIES ARE GROWING SWIFTLY

California has twenty-three cities each with population in excess of 10,000. It has twenty-two cities ranging in population from 5000 to 10,000. It has but two cities that approximate 50,000 population each, and but one city in the quarter-million population class. There are six cities having population between 25,000 and 50,000; three ranging from 50,000 to 100,000; and eleven between 10,000 and 20,000. This manifestly is a healthful distribution of population. We are not extremist either way. We do not have overgrown cities. Nor do we have runt cities and overpopulated rural communities.

According to latest estimates, Los Angeles claims to be the metropolis of the state, with 500,000 as its claim, while San Francisco is credited with 485,000. These two cities and Oakland, with its 210,000, are the only ones in the state exceeding 100,000 population. Two of them lie in the northern half of the state and one in the southern. San Diego leads the class of cities having between 50,000 and 100,000. The estimate made for it is 90,000; Sacramento follows with 76,000 and Berkeley with 52,000. Of this class of cities, two are in the north and one in the south.

Of the class between 25,000 and 50,000 three flourishing cities are about neck and neck—Pasadena, Long Beach and Fresno, each with about 40,000; San Jose has 37,000, Alameda 27,000 and Stockton 26,000.

Of the class between 10,000 and 20,000 Bakersfield is premier and is almost in the 20,000 class, with its 19,000; Riverside comes next with 18,000; Eureka, San Bernardino and Santa Barbara are tied with 15,000 each; Vallejo has 14,000; Santa Cruz 13,000, Pomona, Redlands and Santa Rosa 12,000 each, and Santa Ana 11,000.

Ten of the twenty-three cities above 10,000 population are in Southern California. The sections of the state are well balanced in distribution of cities of the same rank in population.—Pasadena Star.

M. M. MORRISON

Mr. M. M. Morrison, father of Clyde Morrison of the Glendale Pharmacy, passed away Sunday at San Bernardino. The remains are at the Seavern-Letton-Frey Undertaking parlors awaiting shipment east for burial.

CHICKEN THIEVES ABROAD

Reports are reaching Chief Herald of depredations committed by chicken thieves in West Glendale and sections just outside the city limits. There are a great number of valuable chickens just now in excellent condition, which are to be exhibited at the Poultry show this week, and it is believed that the thieves are anxious to secure some of those nicely groomed and long-pedigreed fowls. Parties having valuable chickens are advised to look carefully to their security as the thieves are apparently expert in their nefarious business.

PERSONALS

The Walter N. Stamps, of 1306 Lomita avenue, spent Sunday with Pasadena friends, Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace Reeder of Madison avenue.

Miss Ruth Brown of 1620 Stocker street was a Sunday and overnight guest of Mrs. Marie McDonald Brown of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kimball entertained on Saturday, friends from Rockford, Ill., in their home at 1303 Maple avenue.

Mrs. W. L. Colton and family have returned to their Glendale home on Central avenue for the winter, after a sojourn in Corona extending five months.

Mr. R. H. Wells of 1504 West Broadway, left last evening for Needles, California, where he will enjoy quail and duck shooting for the next ten days.

Miss Hazel Colton of 411 South Central avenue is expected to return from San Francisco on Saturday, where she has been vacationizing for the past two weeks.

Master Charles Bosserman, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy W. Bosserman, is improving steadily at the parental home, 814 South Central avenue, after an illness of two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ackley of 210 South Kenwood street had a delightful surprise on Thursday, when their son, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest M. Ackley, of Victorville, arrived by auto, returning late on Friday.

Among those recently reported ill and now on the high road to recovery are Miss Esther Schremp of 1442 West Broadway, Miss George Duffet, 1008 Chestnut, Miss Juanita Emery, 117 South Kenwood, Dr. D. W. Hunt and daughter, Miss Dorothy Hunt, at 121 West 5th street.

The John T. Cramptons of 1011 Chestnut street had as all day guests on Sunday Mrs. Crampton's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Isitt, who recently have come to Glendale to make their home and are at present domiciled at 825 South Louise street.

Presiding informally at luncheon on Tuesday is Mrs. Freeman Kelley, of 532 Orange Grove avenue. Eucharistic carnations will grace the table center, at which places will be arranged for Mrs. Thomas Joyce and Mrs. Dringold of Los Angeles and Miss Athena Pirt of Glendale.

The president, Mrs. John T. Crampton, of the Woman's Guild of St. Mark's church, has called a special meeting for Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 8, at 2:30 o'clock, in the Guild hall of the church, to arrange business matters following the bazaar. The next regular meeting will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 15.

Mrs. Calvin Whiting of 329 North Maryland avenue, who has recently been guest of friends in Santa Ana, was the honoree at a brilliantly appointed luncheon at the home of Miss M. Henry and sister of that city. Mrs. Whiting enjoys a large acquaintance in Santa Ana and the affair was most delightful.

Word has been received by Mrs. LeRoy W. Bosserman of the safe arrival at La Porte, Indiana, of Mr. LeRoy W. Bosserman and his mother, widow of the late Charles Bosserman. The funeral of Mr. Charles Bosserman was held on Sunday, December 5, under the auspices of the Masonic order of La Porte.

On Tuesday Mrs. Mary Garrett of 1530 Vine street will drive her car to Redlands and Riverside, the friends accompanying as guests being her sister, Mrs. G. H. Peterson, Mrs. Eva Neubauer of San Francisco and Mrs. R. H. Titus of Los Angeles. On Wednesday evening Mrs. Juana Levy, society editor of the Los Angeles "Herald" will be a special guest in the Garrett home.

Mr. W. D. Lathrop, who is living a bachelor's life at his home, 1509 Hawthorne street, entertained Saturday, on the occasion of his 72nd birthday, the following party: Mrs. Lyman Adams, Mrs. D. B. Finson, Miss Lily A. Smith and Mr. John Torrey. The menu consisted of fish chowder in four courses and while some variety might have been desired the genuine New England flavor of the entertainment and the joyful occasion made the guests forgetful of such small matters.

PRAISE EVENING NEWS

As Mr. Thomson, the gentleman employed to collect subscription and advertising accounts for the Evening News passes around among the people he meets with a kindly reception, and hears only good words spoken of Glendale's little daily paper. OPENING OF CONGRESS

LONGEST AND MOST IMPORTANT PROGRAM OF A DECADE AWAITS DISCUSSION

(Special to Glendale Evening News) WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6.—The first session of the 64th Congress convened at noon today in the last Congressional meeting before the 1916 presidential campaign. All 435 members of the house and 32 senators were sworn in. Of the former 116; of the latter 9 were new. Resting upon the legislative program of the new Congress today was the shadow of national and world politics. Tomorrow the administration's progress will be outlined personally by President Wilson when he reads his opening message to the joint session. Its known big outstanding features are: National defense, revenue, War measures and Government Ship Purchase.

There is a mass of other legislation comprising the largest, longest and most important program of a decade. Since the adjournment of the 63rd Congress last March a score of new and vital questions have arisen. The session may well continue into next summer.

Vice president Marshall presided in the Senate and South Trimble, house Clerk, in the lower body, pending Speaker Clark's election. Re-election of President Wilson and continued Democratic control of the nation's destinies were conceded by most legislators to depend on the results of this session.

HARP SOLOIST AT CHURCH

Rather an unusual feature was enjoyed at the evening service of the Congregational church Sunday night, when a crowded congregation listened with pleasure and profit to the skilled playing of Mr. A. M. Miller, the well-known harpist of Los Angeles. Mr. Miller played two sacred selections, "There Shall Be No Shadows," and "The Better Land," both of which profoundly moved the audience. Had it been possible to encore the music the congregation would have asked further entertainment from Mr. Miller.

A solo by Mr. Von Oven was appropriate. Mr. A. R. Chappell, who presided at the piano, Mr. W. J. Button, who handled the responsive reading and Mr. W. D. McRae, who gave the prayer, discharged their various functions with dignity and effect.

Mr. D. E. Luther, the faithful and efficient secretary of the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A., delivered an earnest address on Paul's words to Timothy, "My son be strong." He said that the evangelization of the world was a man's job. While appreciating the work of women in all ages and fully understanding how many of the institutions and societies of the church owe their existence and what they have accomplished to the valuable help of women, Mr. Luther insisted that the evangelization of the world was a man's work. He instanced the labors of Martin Luther, the mighty reformer of Germany; John Knox, the fearless ecclesiastic head of the Scotch reformation; John Wesley, the founder of Methodism in England; William Booth, the founder of the Salvation Army; Sir George Williams, founder of the Y. M. C. A.; D. L. Moody, the gospel preacher; Father Clark, founder of the Christian Endeavor movement and lastly John Mott, the consecrated layman of our own times.

JURY FREES STOCKDALE

Jack Stockdale, of Kenwood avenue, charged with having taken, stolen and carried away an odd lot of lumber belonging to C. F. Parker, was tried before Judge Whomes and a petit jury Monday morning. The jury consisted of J. B. Wright, R. Gilhouse, J. Reed, J. G. Royce, L. R. Obert and L. Sonntag. Stockdale was defended by Attorney Albert D. Pearce and Judge Whomes conducted the case for the people.

The defendant's attorney admitted that Stockdale had used the lumber, having constructed with it a temporary driveway for the Barnes' circus; but showed that Stockdale had obtained permission to use it from some woman who stated that she was the owner. Stockdale and his wife both showed that Stockdale had this authority and also showed that as soon as Stockdale learned that C. F. Parker was the owner of the lumber that he communicated with him; told him he had used the lumber and offered to make what arrangements Mr. Parker might want and to deliver the lumber wherever desired. It was also shown that he actually did deliver the lumber to Mr. Parker, before being served with the summons for the present action.

Without leaving their seats the jury held a whispered consultation, at the close of which they announced that the defendant was "not guilty."

TRUE CHRISTIANITY

That the most powerful and eloquent sermons will have but little weight with a skeptical world unless the lives of church members are such as to show that the gospel has transformed them, was the declaration of Elder B. E. Beddoe, president of the Southern California Conference of the Seventh-day Adventists, delivered at the Glendale Adventist Church, at Third and Isabel streets, Saturday morning. President Beddoe said that "a cheap Christian character causes more harm than that of the worldling."

"All the books in the world will not take the place of an upright Christian life," the minister said. "Men will believe, not what the minister says in the pulpit, but what the church lives. The sermon preached in the lives of the church members too often counteracts that preached in the pulpit."

Elder Beddoe's text was Matthew 5:13: "Ye are the salt of the earth." "If salt has lost its preserving qualities it is worthless," he said, "and if Christians have lost the vital power of godliness, so that their service is a mere form, their lives are no better than tasteless salt. God has made provision that we should live on that higher plane of Christianity that our lives may be real lights in the world. He intends that we shall conquer ourselves, he expects us to live Christian lives in our home, and he intends that

TROPICO

"How far that little candle sheds its light, So shines a good deed in a naughty world." A few weeks since, when Miss Ford, head nurse at the Florence Crittenton Home, in Los Angeles, requested, in her sweet, persuasive manner, that if it could be arranged, as a few shades were needed very much in the various sick rooms of this benevolent institution, some effort be made to procure them. All supplies for the Home are received by donations or through the labor of the auxiliary of the home. When this request was learned by Miss Irene Muller, instructor in the Art department of the Glendale Union High School, she decided that she would endeavor to procure the necessary shades. Miss Muller, after learning the design that would be the most feasible and practical for the sick rooms, immediately constructed the design, which was accepted.

Then Miss Muller, whose charming personality is reflected in her department and among her pupils, interested several of the young girls in one of her classes and ere long a number of beautiful and artistic shades of dainty colorings were finished and sent to the Florence Crittenton Home, which gladdened the hearts of Miss Ford, and Mrs. St. Clair, the matron, as well as afforded comfort and relief from the glare of the electric lights to the sick girls. Miss Muller's generous act received the merited praise of the Board of Managers of the home and the names of the girls, who so ably and cheerfully assisted Miss Muller, Misses Alma Pardon, Lucile Barnes, Aileen Freeman, Jennie Lacy, Helen Fischer, Henrietta Polz and Elmar Carwood, were recorded with words of commendable praise, by the entire home.

The writings of Ed Howe, one of Kansas' noted writers, are chiefly notable because of their cruel frankness. When Ed wants to say anything he grabs the most expressive words at hand, strings them together so as to convey his thoughts, and lets it go at that. This is on the presidential courtship: "How tired I am of the Wilson love affair already. And it has only commenced; I shall see a reference to it in every newspaper for weeks, and probably for months. In almost every family you may hear protests because the president 'took notice' too soon. But the newspapers cram the affair down our throats as though we loved and approved it. Here is a woman of no distinction except that she chased a president, and caught him. And the people are compelled to hear about her by the column and page; we even read of her 'youthful enthusiasm,' although she confesses to thirty-eight. The people had been thinking of the president as buried in the White House library, mourning for his lost mate, and reading good books to enable him to meet the Grave Emergencies of the war; but suddenly they are confronted with the fact that instead of doing these things, he has been slipping past the newspaper boys in the evening, and spending his time agreeably in holding a widow's hand. How we jays who make up the people are imposed upon." There is no question but that Ed Howe's version fairly interprets the composite American mind.

Charles E. Dutton arrived from New York, Wednesday, and will be the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dutton of Virginia Place. Mr. Dutton, for the past sixteen years, has been a leading actor on the theatrical stage, throughout the eastern cities.

Mrs. Zellie L. Borthick, of Palmer avenue, is spending a few weeks at Owensmouth, where she is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Anna L. Gallow.

A number of Tropico citizens are interested in the Poultry and Pet Animal show that is scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and which will be held in the large store room beneath Hotel Grey, on Broadway, in Glendale. BURBANKChamber of Commerce Banquet

Two hundred invitations brought hearty response at the Chamber of Commerce banquet and annual get-together meeting, held Thursday evening, December 2. The delicious viands, which were served by the Ladies' Auxiliary, proved the especial attraction. Messrs. Hornby, Salisbury and Rose had charge of arrangements for the chamber, while Mrs. Groshong was chairman of the auxiliary's committee. The program which followed the meal proved of great interest and the chamber members feel that a greater Burbank will result from their labors.

Burglars in Burbank

Tuesday evening the Spazier home, at Olive and Sixth streets, was the scene of burglary. The family was away from home between the hours of seven and nine. During this time some culprit took advantage of their absence and thoroughly ransacked the house. Two watches and several trinkets were taken.

$5000 Improvement

Mr. Sherlock, a prosperous rancher of Burbank, has started the construction of a $5000 home on Sixth street, off Providencia avenue. Mr. Sherlock is the owner of a large sheep ranch in Oregon and is one of Burbank's most substantial citizens. His new home will be a show place of the valley from the prominence on which it is located.

LITTLELANDS AND SUNLANDS

Dr. Kearney made a trip to Hyde Park last Wednesday in the interest of his business and to call on old friends.

Town Meeting

The interest of the audience last Tuesday evening centered in the lesson on pruning. Mr. Woodruff, chairman of that committee, gave a talk on trees and demonstrated his lecture by an object lesson on some trees he had brought in from the canyon. This was very instructive. Mr. Wieman gave an interesting talk on the pruning of fruit trees and illustrated his talk by diagrams on the blackboard. Mr. Green had charge of the lesson on the pruning of citrus trees. His talk was practical and to the point. Every one felt that such a meeting was worth attending and thanks are due to this committee for the practical and fascinating work.

Christian Federation

The Federation last Sunday had the pleasure of listening again to Rev. Mr. Birchley. He took the Book of Matthew for his theme. He gave a succinct and graphic discourse, contrasting the four gospels in the different phases of their message to mankind. Matthew portrays Christ as the king, though rejected by his people. Mary teaches of the Saviour in his service to mankind. Luke treats of his humanity, or portrays him as the son of man and John as the son of God. In another aspect Matthew is termed the lion which is the king of beasts; Mark, the ox which is the beast of burden, or the symbol of service; Luke, the face of a man, representing humanity, and John the eagle. Mr. Birchley preached again in the evening to an appreciative audience.

LA CRESCENTA

Miss Florence Boden entertained the Grammar school teachers at her home on Olive avenue Tuesday evening. A most enjoyable evening was spent with music and sewing, after which dainty refreshments were served.

Water Meeting

Goss Canyon Water company directors held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Jones, the president, in Los Angeles Tuesday. It was decided to continue the present development work in the tunnel. Joe Hawkins of La Crescenta attended.
